

What is the Transportation Master Plan (TMP)?

Blueprint for travel and mobility looking out about 20 years that describes how transportation facilities and services support broader community goals and values

- Policies related to transportation
- Modal Plans: Pedestrian, Bicycle, Transit, Roadway, TDM
- Background on travel behavior and expectations
- An investment program of proposed projects
- A fiscal plan for funding and spending

Why do an update?

- The Boulder Valley Comprehensive Plan was recently revised and changes some assumptions for transportation
- The region and community have experience unexpected growth, especially in the area of employment
- The current plan is not fully funded and funding will likely become a bigger issue for the city
- While the city has achieved significant success, current actions are not likely to achieve the objectives of the plan
- The city generally tries to update master plans every five years. The TMP was adopted in 1989 and first updated in 1996.
